The Vacy combines all architectural techniques and materials that make this a modern home. By using different rooflines and a floor plan that steps back from the usual rectangle this has created an interesting and engaging design. When using different colours and materials in the external walls this optically splits up the structure and lightens the appearance of this extensive home. At each angle of the home there is a deck where the views of the great outdoors can be admired. The bedrooms are arranged away from the main living area allowing the bulk of the home to be enjoyed as an open living area. When opening the bi-fold doors the internal area combines with the outside alfresco deck making this a vast area to entertain and enjoy outdoor living. There is so much storage space in this home. The Vacy will connect your senses and fulfil all your expectations.
